THE 2022 GIRLS RISING MUSIC FESTIVAL

A celebration of the global work of Antigone Rising's nonprofit organization Girls Rising.

The idea to start Girls Rising was born backstage while we were on tour with The Bangles in 2012. We got to talking about how so few all female bands existed. The answer is, sadly, obvious. Girls don't see all female bands anywhere. Girls don't see too many female CEOs of major corporations, or all that many airline pilots or NASA astronauts or chemical engineers or architects or pastors in churches or major league baseball players either. They don't see female Presidents, at least not in the United States of America, and if they do see female soccer players, they see ones who are grossly underpaid compared to their male counterparts.

So we decided we would start a nonprofit, travel all around the world and talk to girls and boys to let them know that women can play instruments and be astronauts and engineers and scientists and brain surgeons and anything they want to be. Even Presidents. So the mission of our work became clear to us. Through our outreach workshops, we would inspire and empower young girls and LGBTQ youth to follow their dreams, pursue nontraditional career paths and remind them that it's okay to play, think and be different.

The Girls Rising Music Festival ultimately serves to showcase and celebrate the work we are doing and to reinforce our message of equality, inclusion and empowerment. This year we are proud to present multiple Grammy® Award Winning performers including Shawn Colvin, Lisa Loeb and Judith Hill. We are equally excited to have Vicci Martinez and Emily Tarver, who were both featured on the popular Netflix series Orange Is The New Black.

Every year over the course of the festival day, Girls Rising presents an outreach panel discussion much like the one Antigone Rising performs at schools and community centers around Long Island and all over the world. The band invites distinguished women from various professions to come talk about their experiences rising to the tops of their fields. This year we are thrilled to have back Grammy® Nominated Singer and our 2018 Girls Rising Game Changer Award Recipient Carnie Wilson to moderate this all-star panel.

Girls Rising believes our kids need to dream big! This year we are extremely proud to announce our 2022 Scholarship and Grant winners in the memories of Milt Okun and Sheila Primont. In addition, we are also thrilled to award the Melissa Etheridge, Joan Jett & The Blackhearts, Paula Cole, Carnie Wilson and Glen Cove McDonalds (Castiglione Organization) Girls Rising Grant Awards to be given to students who serve their school community, work hard, have strong leadership qualities and were genuinely motivated by attending a Girls Rising Outreach Event.

We would especially like to take this time to thank all of our sponsors, donors, contributors, program advertisers, vendors and volunteers who have helped us build and evolve Girls Rising. We are grateful for your generosity and unwavering support. We are able to continue the work we do because of all of YOU!

If you want to learn more about the work we are doing, please visit our website GirlsRising.Org. If you would like to bring a Girls Rising Outreach to a local school, community center, college or corporation near you, get in touch with us at info@girlsrising.org. If you'd like to make a tax deductible donation to Girls Rising, you can do so on the festival site at the Donation Station (located in the Gazebo), at the Merchandise Tent or with our volunteers stationed at each entrance and walking throughout the event grounds. You can also donate by going directly to GirlsRising.Org/Donate or simply scan the QR code with your mobile phone camera.

Thank you all for your kindness and being part of this very special event.

Enjoy!

ANTIGONE RISING

GIRLS RISING MUSIC FESTIVAL CO-CREATORS

GIRLS RISING MAINSTAGE

In more than 20 years as one of America's hardest-working rock bands, Antigone Rising has established a far-reaching reputation for sticking to their instincts. While the band's high-energy live performances have earned the long term devotion of fans, Antigone Rising's passionate social conscience continues to manifest itself in the group's tireless activism.

In 2014, Antigone Rising formed the nonprofit organization Girls Rising. Throughout the year, Girls Rising partners with local school districts and youth centers to empower and inspire young girls and LGBTQ youth through live performances, presentations and workshops. Girls Rising also presents an annual music festival to celebrate the organization's accomplishments and to give female performers a platform to be heard.

The creation of Girls Rising was originally set in motion after Antigone Rising was invited by the U.S. state department to perform throughout the Middle East. The band headlined arenas in Bethlehem and Tel Aviv by night, while performing outreach workshops in remote villages along the West Bank by day. After touring the Middle East, the band again traveled to Vietnam to perform during the 40th Anniversary of U.S./ Vietnamese Normalization Celebrations. Seeing up close how music can bridge cultures and bring people together, Antigone Rising returned home inspired to create Girls Rising.

Early on, Antigone Rising established a reputation for tireless touring, playing upwards of 280 shows per year. Without the benefit of a record deal or mainstream promotion, the group routinely packed live shows. In 2003, Antigone Rising's success won them a mainstream record deal with Atlantic Records. Their debut album, From the Ground Up, was one of the first album's distributed through Starbucks chains nationwide. When corporate shakeups landed the band back in the indie world, their loyal fan base stuck with them, continuing to support their live shows and self-released CDs.

The band's latest release, True Joy (2022), enlists a multitude of female artists behind the scenes. From grammy winning songwriters, to producers, engineers and mixers, an A list of female talent was employed to create the album. Once recorded, female directors, editors and graphic designers were used wherever possible to help Antigone Rising present their vision of marrying mission to music.

True Joy album highlights include the song "Avalanche", a powerful anthem of female empowerment, "Right There With You", a southern rock blues ballad, and "Badlands", a song co-written with Grammy award winning songwriter, Lori McKenna.

The band is thrilled to be joined by long-time former bandmate, Dena Tauriello, on drums for this year's festival performance.

GIRLS RISING MAINSTAGE ARTISTS

SHAWN COLVIN GIRLS RISING MAINSTAGE

In an era when female singer-songwriters are ever more ubiquitous, Shawn Colvin stands out as a singular and enduring talent. Her songs are slow-release works of craft and catharsis that become treasured, lifetime companions for their listeners. As a storyteller, Colvin is both keen and warm-hearted, leavening even the toughest tales with tenderness, empathy, and a searing sense of humor. In the nearly 30 years since the release of her debut album, Colvin has won three GRAMMY® Awards, released twelve albums, written a critically acclaimed memoir, maintained a non-stop national and international touring schedule, appeared on countless television and radio programs, had her songs featured in major motion pictures and created a remarkable canon of work.

Colvin was born in Vermillion, South Dakota, where she lived until she was eight. A small-town childhood in the university town of Carbondale, IL, drew her to the guitar by the age of 10. She made her first public appearance on campus at the University of Illinois at age 15. By the late 1970's Colvin was singing in a Western Swing band in Austin, Texas—the city she now calls home. Moving to New York at the decade's end she remained in the country music field as a member of the Buddy Miller Band where she met producer, guitarist and co-writer John Leventhal. Leventhal inspired Colvin to find her own voice as a songwriter. She began honing her skill and was soon signed to Columbia Records. Her first album, Steady On, produced by Leventhal, won the GRAMMY® Award for Best Contemporary Folk Recording.

In 1996, she released A Few Small Repairs, which would prove to be her breakthrough. The song “Sunny Came Home” gave Colvin a Top 10 hit, a platinum-selling album and two of GRAMMY's biggest honors: Record of the Year and Song of the Year.

Colvin was recognized for her career accomplishments when she was honored with the Lifetime Achievement Trailblazer Award at the 2016 Americana Honors and Awards Show. Presenting her with this prestigious award was Bonnie Raitt. Said Raitt, “She’s simply one of the best singers I’ve ever heard – and a truly gifted and deep songwriter and guitarist... She was groundbreaking when she emerged and continues to inspire me and the legions of fans and other singer/songwriters coming up in her wake”

2018 saw the release of The Starlighter (Amazon Music), a new album of songs adapted from the children's music book Lullabies and Night Songs. The Starlighters mixes traditional numbers and children's standards in an elegant and graceful musical offering that resonates with the warmth and tenderness of poignant familial experience and remembrance. The result is an album that captures the magic and mystery of children's lullabies in a moving and timeless musical offering.

In September 2019, to commemorate the 30th anniversary of the release of Steady On, Colvin released a special, newly-recorded all acoustic version of that landmark album.

JUDITH HILL GIRLS RISING MAINSTAGE

Hailing from Los Angeles, CA, Judith Hill comes from a Japanese/African-American biracial musical family. Mother Michiko and father Robert (aka Pee Wee) met in a 1970's funk band, and continue to perform in Judith's backing ensemble.

In a prolific, decade-long dream sequence, the singer collaborated with iconic artists across multiple platforms, genres and mediums. Hill was selected to duet with the late Michael Jackson on "I Just Can't Stop Loving You" during his This Is It concerts in London. After his sudden passing in June 2009, Hill sang lead on a number at Jackson's memorial service, putting her on the worldwide map in an instant.

Judith's rise to fame is explored in 20 Feet from Stardom, where her performances helped win a Grammy for Best Music Film. She was also wildly-popular on the fourth season of hit TV show The Voice, where she placed in the top 10. Hill contributed to jazz luminary George Benson's tribute to Nat King Cole, and was drafted as direct support on arena tours for both John Legend and Josh Groban. The pair released the single "Remember When it Rained." After discovering the singer on Revolt TV, Prince recorded her debut full-length solo album Back in Time.

On her latest LP Baby, I'm Hollywood, Judith Hill unveils an ambitious, kaleidoscopic document detailing her journey of self-discovery. The self produced album finds Hill liberated, focused and reborn.

LISA LOEB GIRLS RISING MAINSTAGE

Dallas native Lisa Loeb is a GRAMMY® Award-winning singer songwriter, touring musician and philanthropist who started her career with the platinum-selling hit song "Stay (I Missed You)" from the film Reality Bites. A trailblazing independent artist, Lisa was the first pop musician to have a Number 1 single while not signed to a recording contract. She followed that remarkable feat with several hit singles and six albums, two of which were certified gold.

Lisa recently released her 15th album, A Simple Trick To Happiness, to stellar reviews, and followed the release with the debut of her new musical, Together Apart, which she co-wrote and co-produced with over 100 of her fellow Brown University alums to raise money for The Actors Fund. Lisa is also well known to parents and kids for her five children's albums and two illustrated children's books with music. She collaborated to develop the children's musical Camp Kappawanna, which debuted at New York City's Atlantic Theater Company. Inspired by her own love of summer camp, in 2008, Lisa started The Camp Lisa Foundation, which sends underserved kids to summer camp.

Over the last few years, Lisa has released three children's albums that are exclusively available with Amazon. Her family friendly album, Feel What U Feel, won the GRAMMY® for Best Children's Album. Lisa also provides voice talent for the animated series Creative Galaxy and composes the original songs for the Emmy nominated, If You Give a Mouse a Cookie series.

Vicci Martinez, the daughter of a Mexican father employed as a plumber, and a mother employed as an ESL teacher, has been performing since the age of 16 with a musical style that is firmly rooted in the acoustic-rock tradition. Vicci's compositions are personal and often autobiographical. In 2011, she placed third in NBC's singing competition series "The Voice." Her EP, Come Along, was released on May 1, 2012, followed by her Universal Republic album "Vicci" on June 19 of the same year and her 2012 chart hit, "Come Along", a cover of a 2001 single from Swedish recording act Titiyo, featured Cee Lo Green. On May 1, 2015, Martinez self-released her album, I Am Vicci Martinez.

In 2018, after being discovered by the casting director via a google search, Martinez played inmate Daddy on season 6 of the Netflix series Orange Is The New Black. Martinez also appeared in the seventh and final season.

Emily Tarver is an actress, writer, comedian, musician, and producer from Houston, Texas. Her comedic work includes stand-up, improv, sketch, and musical comedy. Vicci and Emily met on the set of Orange Is The New Black and have created a strong bond by writing music and performing together.

In Memoriam.

We dedicate this day to our hilarious and beloved front of house and recording engineer from 'back in the day,' George Marshall. George, Thank you for all the miles, all the reverb and for never telling us the truth about how much auto-tuning you did in the studio.

Girls Rising has partnered with Melissa Etheridge, Joan Jett & The Blackhearts, Paula Cole, Carnie Wilson and McDonalds to create five Grant Awards to be awarded to students K-8 who have been empowered and inspired by attending a Girls Rising Outreach during the 2022-2023 academic year. Teachers and administrators were asked to submit students who serve their school community, show strong leadership qualities, and whom they feel were genuinely motivated by attending a Girls Rising Outreach event at their school.

The purpose of these grant awards is to remind girls to reach a helping hand out to those coming up behind them. The best way we can change the game and advance gender equality is to help other girls and women rise above adversity.

Services provided are at no cost to the client as I am paid a referral fee by the community

I worked in a local assisted living facility where I served as Wellness Director and as Case Manager during my 27 years with the company. I decided to start my own company, as a Senior Placement Consultant.

My past experience has provided me with the knowledge to ensure that a potential resident's needs can be met in the appropriate assisted living community. Having been in this industry for so long I am aware of the types of services communities can provide. In addition, I am familiar with the NYS DOH regulations and the paperwork that is required to be completed before a prospective resident is admitted to an Assisted Living. Ultimately, I would like to be the bridge that links it all together.
